Just What They Said: Interpreting Intentionally Vague Language (VL)

Participants will study and explore the use of vague language (VL) in both English and ASL, the communicative purpose of VL, the importance of retaining ambiguity when conveying vague messages from one language to another, the benefits of leaving language vague instead of interrupting to request clarifications, and specific strategies for conveying VL in both ASL and English.

Presented by Daniel Greene

Daniel Greene, BA, CI and CT, NIC Master, has been interpreting since 1990 in educational, academic, business, medical, conference, performing arts, and video settings. His love of arts and literature informs his work, and his passion for elevating the sign language interpreting profession drives him to study lesser-known aspects of our work and teach interpreters new skills.
